Indie Radio Station Seeks Good Home

KORC 105.9 is a low power, non-commercial FM radio station designated for nonprofit, educational use. Its license is currently held by Veterans for Peace, who wish to transfer it to someone who can fund and grow the station.

Uphill Media wishes to take over the license and use KORC to broadcast civics-related content, news and great music.

Because KORC is FCC-licensed, it can pay a nominal fee for the rights to broadcast any music and any political speech.

The station would be user-supported, with sponsors and underwriters, but no paid advertising. Staff can be paid and sponsors thanked on air - the same rules that apply to PBS.

The physical station is a tower and computer. All of the programming is done remotely, by multiple producers. We can share content with sister stations, as well as broadcast syndicated programs like Democracy Now.

Best of all, KORC's reach is NOT limited to Corvallis. The station will also stream content to its website, reaching listeners all over the world.

Want to Help?

We are looking for investors, volunteers and organizations to help build the station.

We also seek DJs, musicians, podcast and radio hosts interested in producing shows.

Our goal is $30K to properly fund the station, but we can launch with as little as $13K.

Basic needs include:

- $5,000 deposit on station gear to install in downtown Corvallis
- $1,000 permits and equipment installation
- $1,000 one year antenna space lease
- $6,000 one year operating expenses (gear payment, utilities, fees) at $500/mo
